

Lions and Rotary members (from left) Ray McKinnon, Fame Gilbride, Peter Hodgson, Geoff Webb, Michael Beaver, Stephen Berry and Brian McRobb. Picture: Jon Hewson www.communitypix.com.au d492754

Clubs combine for market share

BARGAIN hunters and those looking to sell their unwanted goods now have a new market in Cockburn.

Since March 10, the Rotary Club of Cockburn and the Jandakot Lakes Lions Club have held the Beeliar Markets every Sunday, inviting locals to the Beeliar Village Shopping Centre where they can buy or sell pre-used items such as clothes, furniture, gardening equipment, books, toys and sporting equipment.

Rotary Club of Cockburn's Ray McKinnon said getting the market off the ground had been a two-year process but locals had responded well to it.

"The community reached out for this event to happen and it is now in place and will keep going every Sunday for as long as the community wants it," he said.

"Rather than having a garage sale, come to the market where there will be many more buyers.

"Buyers can get extraordinary bargains and every dollar saved can help their own budget.

"All money goes back into the Cockburn community, particularly youth programs."

The Beeliar Market is held every Sunday at $10 a bay for sellers and gold coin entry for buyers.

Sellers should be in place before 7am, which is when the market is open to buyers. Visit www.cockburnrotary.org.au or jandakotlakes.wa.lions.org.au.